Sheffield, Schmidt Lead '60-'61 Alumni

Two veterans, O. K. Sheffield '53 and Stephen J. "Smitty" Schmidt '40, were elected to head the two major alumni organizations for the coming year.

Sheffield moved up from the first vice-presidential post in the National Alumni Assn., and Schmidt was re-elected for the third consecutive year to the Booster Club helm.

The elections occurred during the annual business meetings of the two organizations which were held on Alumni Day, April 30.

About 250 alumni and friends of Oglethorpe braved heavy rains during the early part of the day to help dedicate the field house. They remained to take care of the annual alumni business, see the Petrels win another baseball game, and try their best to consume all of the food at the smorgasbord dinner. Food had been prepared for 450 people.

O. K. SHEFFIELD

STEPHEN J. SCHMIDT

Although the floor had not been completed, spectators were visibly awed by the size and uniqueness of the field house. Both Sheffield and Schmidt, representing their respective organizations, expressed gratitude to the Oglethorpe trustees for making the building possible. They also pledged increased alumni interest and support for the total Oglethorpe program.

ALUMNI TO HELP MAKE PLANS

The long, black lines of people with colorful hoods filed slowly out of the crowded auditorium, and another graduation day is over.

Faces caught between smiles and tears finally resolve themselves into one or the other during the goodbyes around the punchbowl. Remarks such as, "I didn't realize I could get such a fine education at Oglethorpe until I actually attended," or "I've been to other colleges, but none has given me what I received at Oglethorpe," are predictable because each class of graduates has much the same thing to say.

Alumni may feel as proud as these in the long lines that an Oglethorpe education means a significant education. They may feel proud of the firm foundation of quality that is being layed for coping with this complex society.

Plans are being made to do an even better job in the years to come. During the latter part of July, administration and faculty members and representatives of the trustees and alumni will spend two or three days discussing the future of Oglethorpe. At that time it is hoped that a general outline will be developed to guide Oglethorpe's destiny for several years.

A major part of the discussions will undoubtedly concern the financial support needed for program improvements. It is believed that during the next five years a definitive program of development can be undertaken so that funds for capital outlay and endowment may be assured.

But during this process, there is need for adequate additional support.

225 in Summer School 2nd Session Begins July 18

Mrs. Marjorie MacConnell, registrar, stated that Oglethorpe has the highest summer school enrollment since 1956. Some 225 summer scholars are attending the first session which began on June 13.

Notable among these students is that 110 are regular college students who are accelerating their college program. Sixty Oglethorpe students are in the group, including seven who will receive degrees in August. The remaining 50 will transfer earned credits to schools in which they are regularly enrolled.

In-service teachers comprise the next largest group with 93 enrolled. They study in the summer to complete their undergraduate work, gain an increment advancement or update their teaching certificates.

Relative newcomers to the summer program are high school students, graduates and non-grads, who have their eyes on college. Twenty-three of these youngsters are taking non-credit refresher courses in high school English and math, the major college stumbling blocks. This is the third year Oglethorpe has offered such a program.

Thirteen courses will be offered in the second summer school session which begins on July 18. They include: English: Speech and Writing II; Trigonometry; History: Western Civilization III; Comparative Government; Southern History; History of the Symphony; Introduction to Philosophy; Man and the Universe; Elementary French (second quarter); Elementary School Art; Seminar in Problems of Education; History of the English Language; and Philosophy of Religion.

Each of these courses will be taught for five weeks ending on August 19. Additional information, for those wishing to enroll, can be obtained from Mrs. MacConnell. Call her at CEdar 3-6772 or write c/o Oglethorpe University, Oglethorpe University Station, Atlanta 19, Georgia.

This support we have called the Fund for the Future.

In essence, the Fund for the Future consists of $100,000 per year for five years to come from a limited number of sources — foundations, organizations, and individuals. Each of these sources would contribute from $5,000 to $20,000 per year for five years.

This $100,000 per year would be used:

1. To build a stable basis of financial support
2. To plan a long range development program
3. To increase teacher salaries
4. To improve the physical plant
5. To support some phases of current operations
6. To support special projects
7. To contribute to the endowment

Your alumni executive committee voted to support this new Fund by depositing all Forward Oglethorpe funds into it. A goal of $15,000 has been set as the alumni's share from September 1, 1960 to August 31, 1961. Your gift may be earmarked for one or more of the areas listed above. If unmarked, it will be used in the area that has the greatest need.

These funds will not overlap areas that are supported by Booster Club members, and Booster Club contributions will be kept in a separate account.

Groundwork is being laid to form regional alumni groups. It is felt that this move will bring the alumni closer together through greater contact with each other. It can also be an effective organization for solicitation during our annual alumni fund drives. It is hoped that during the drive this fall, virtually every alumnus will be personally asked to support the alumni program.

Oglethorpe University has reached a point from which it is moving forward to become a truly great institution. Through the efforts of the Board of Trustees, the faculty, the alumni, and friends of the college, progress has been made in all the basic areas connected with the institution. The curriculum has been and will continue to be studied. The objectives of the college have been restated. The financial operation has become more efficient. The student body is larger than at any time during the past twenty years. The quality of the faculty has been steadily improved until it is second to none for small colleges in the area.

The efforts of alumni and others in the past have led to the position that Oglethorpe holds today. Each of us is asked to support many worthy projects every year. May we suggest that you keep Oglethorpe in mind this fall? Continued help is needed to keep the long, black lines moving.

McGill Charges Seniors, Klein, Jackson Win Oglethorpe Cups

Six hundred spectators, including thirty-five graduating seniors, listened in excited silence as a master of words and ideas, Ralph McGill, charged the Class of 1960 during the 85th Oglethorpe University commencement program.

McGill, publisher of The Atlanta Constitution, told the graduates that, "My generation needs your help in faith that law is founded on morality and that morality finds its foundation in the individual; that life does have values which sustain one in loneliness and frustration."

He added, "A people that loses its self respect, its inner faith, is easily demoralized. With such people everything is for sale, including themselves, their ideals, their integrity."

The baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Bishop Costen J. Harrell, Visiting Professor in the Candler School of Theology at Emory University.

G. Arthur Howell, Jr., chairman of the Oglethorpe University Board of Trustees, presented several annual awards to outstanding students.

Charles O. Jackson, Jr. and Francine A. Klein received the coveted James Edward Oglethorpe Cups as the man and woman who have best realized the ideals of an Oglethorpe education.

Jackson, who graduated summa cum laude, also received the Faculty Scholarship Award. Miss Klein added the LeConte Science Society Award to her honors and graduated cum

BARTENFELDS HAVE RECIPE FOR LIVING

Could this be your recipe for good living?

Take 400 acres of land 25 miles north of Atlanta, Georgia. Carefully separate the rolling, wooded tract from the bottom section. Fence bottom land into six pastures. Sprinkle generously with 100 ponies and a score of dairy and beef cattle. Add a 15 acre lake stocked with bass and brim. Blend gently and top with a beautiful ranch style home overlooking the lake.

That is the dish created and enjoyed by Mr, and Mrs. Thomas A. Bartenfield '24/'26.

It took many years to gather the ingredients.

In July, 1924, the year Mr. Bartenfeld graduated from Oglethorpe, he and a sophomore co-ed, Carol Gifford, were married in the Founders Room in Lupton Hall. (They will celebrate their 36th wedding anniversary this month.)

During the next 13 years Mr. Bartenfeld taught school and coached, sold insurance and cars and learned about electricity. "I never did find anything I liked," he said, "until I started playing with electricity."

He liked it so well that he formed the Bartenfeld Electric Company in 1937. With an office in one room of his home in the Kirkwood section of Atlanta, and with one helper, Mr. Bartenfeld grossed $25,000 in his first year of operation.

Today, the company has grown to about 25 regular employees, increasing to as many as 40 during peak periods, and grossing $700,000 a year.

But the business world is not the only one in which success has been met. The Bartenfelds have five children — a daughter and four younger brothers — and five grandchildren.

T. A. "Gus" Bartenfeld, Jr., a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, is associated with Bartenfeld Electric. Charles, second oldest son, is in the mortgage loan department of Adams-Cates, one of the largest realty firms in Atlanta.

Turner and Jerry are studying at the University of Georgia. Turner is working for a masters degree in real estate. Jerry is a current recipient of a Dumbarton Oaks Scholarship. Only two awards of this kind are given annually to college juniors and seniors who are majoring in Landscape Architecture. After studying in Washington, D .C. and touring the country this summer under the auspices of the scholarship, Jerry will return to Georgia to complete his undergraduate work.

The newest addition to the Bartenfeld family is Seth Thomas, Jr. He is a champion Shetland pony who was bought this spring. According to Mr. Bartenfeld, "Junior was shown 36 times and was in the money 31 times."

Breeding Shetland ponies was taken up seriously by Mr. Bartenfeld about seven years ago. The lovable, little animals can command a surprising price of $1,500 to $6,500 dollars. With the acquisition of Seth Thomas, Jr., the Bartenfeld breeding ranch has become one of the most important in the country.

Last November, at the 73rd annual meeting of the American Shetland Pony Club, Inc., Mr. Bartenfeld was elected Director from the Southeast. He is also chairman of the first Shetland Pony Club convention ever to be held in Atlanta. The three day event will take place from October 31 to November 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartenfeld chat at entry way of their ranch style homee.

Anonymous quotes depicting each senior's philosophy are printed under the appropriate pictures in the 1924 Yamacraw. Under the picture of Thomas Augustus Bartenfeld is stated, "Anything that is worth doing at all is worth doing with all your might."

That philosophy has paid off handsomely for Mr. Bartenfeld by bringing him success in his business, success in his avocation and, above all, success with his family.

O. U. Rifle Coach Wins First Match

Chief of Campus Protection, Sewell Edwards, entered and won his first rifle match.

Mr. Edwards shot in the unclassified division at a River Bend Gun Club tournament in Atlanta.

Barbara Marsh '60, a member of the Yamacraw Gun Club at Oglethorpe, came in third in the same contest. She will graduate in August.

Mr. Edwards reactivated the Oglethorpe Gun Club two years ago. It had about 25 active members during the past year.

Reminiscing with the WENDELL BROWNS

YAMACRAW

At this writing, Commencement, with all its tears of regret and sighs of relief, is just over. As has been the custom in the past few years, the last official act of the day was the handing out of the yearbook — the Yamacraw — and again, a very handsome job is the result. And well it should be considering costs. All too often those tears and sighs of the dear departing are for the yearbook debt still towering over head. We are assured that this year all is well.

Oglethorpe has been particularly fortunate in its output. These books are usually a fairly standard sort of thing — imitation tooled leather cover printed in gold enclosing page on page of faces and names, either singly or in groups. But somehow the Yamacraw has managed a little life, a little art. In the years since our arrival, the books of '51, '52, and '53 seem particularly good. The first, under the editorship of Martha Mayson (now Bator) '51, has a burlap cover with a fine, almost abstract, line drawing of Lupton Hall. Inside all pictures were taken by Ed Bator '53, formerly a professional photographer, who, assisted by some talented colleagues, produced real portraits and beautiful campus views as well as plenty of candid shots that were really clear — and candid.

The next year, Ed, himself, became editor. The cover is bound in Oxford gray flannel (genuine, too — the moths have been into ours) with a hole cut through to show a picture on the fly leaf of Lupton doorway. More good pictures, many used in subsequent Yamacraws we notice, and excellent art work largely by Bob Stanley '53 and Dave Fischer '53. Again in 1953, the same gang under the editorship of Jean Kast (Shelton) '53 put out a book covered with stage scenery canvass and full of their usual excellencies.

There was one time when costs and a small student body forced an abandonment of the book, but the next year it came out as a double issue, 1947-48, not a bad job except for the quality of the printing of the pictures.

But perhaps the very most unusual Yamacraw of them all was our first, 1945. The war was just ending, costs were prohibitive, and the student body under fifty souls. We purchased scrap books, black enamelled the covers, pasted yellow Oglethorpe stickers on them, and varnished over the whole job. George Seward, Dean Seward to johnny-come-latelies, turned his many talents to taking pictures of individuals and groups on the campus. Everyone, faculty or student who was not completely inept helped develop and print. Then each student was given an empty scrapbook and a bundle of pictures and told to go to it. Some of us did nothing at all, some of us produced indifferent but highly personal volumes with all the pictures of ourselves on the first page and no picture at all of our enemies, and some made very good looking Yamacraws. Frances Templin '47 had probably the most artistic work but missed being the winner because she did not quite complete it. The prize, and there was a prize, went to Charles Weltner '48. It is the only time in the history of education when every student got a different yearbook.

AWARDS PRESENTED AT BASKETBALL BANQUET

After finishing a delicious dinner at the Atlanta Athletic Club, some 90 people sat for ten minutes and stared at a box.

The occasion was the annual Basketball Awards Night Banquet which was held on April 6. The box was a tape recorder.

Dr. Agnew has just received a $2,000 check from Booster Club treasurer James "Mac" Henderson.

Among the dignitaries present were Dr. Donald C. Agnew, president and Dr. George C. Seward, vice-president of Oglethorpe, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Milton and Mr. and Mrs. William Perkins, Oglethorpe trustees and their wives, several faculty members and the host of the evening, George Kolowich '43.

Mr. Kolowich is president of the Denver-Chicago Truck Lines, one of the nation's major carriers. He is president of the National Industrial Basketball League this year, and he was co-chairman of the Denver Open Golf Tournament which was held in Denver this summer.

During his short informal talk, Mr. Kolowich said, "There's a great thing about athletics. I would venture to say that not one All-American has had a taint of communism."

Coach Garland Pinholster, convalescing from his second attack of mumps, could not attend the function. He spoke, in absentia, with the aid of the tape recorder.

Coach Pinholster expressed his thanks to all who supported the Oglethorpe athletic program and especially paid tribute to the team who "buckled down everytime they were called to do so."

In Pinholster's absence, Dr. Martin Abbott, professor of history and member of the faculty athletic committee, presented the letters.

Receiving the big "O" were Roger Couch, Wayne Dobbs, Jay Dye, Buddy Goodwin, Johnny Guthrie, Sammy Hudgins, Morris Mitchell, Bobby Nance, Tommy Norwood and Jay Rowland.

The two managers, Bob Olson and Ken Borden, were also given letters.

Trophies were presented by Dr. Agnew. The top award "Best Effort" and "Best Free Throw Shooter" went to Roger Couch.

The "Best Rebounder" and "Most Tap Ins" awards went to Jay Dye, only senior on the squad.

Other trophies were earned by Dobbs, "Best Field Goal Shooter"; Goodwin, "Best Defensive Player"; and Norwood, "Most Ball Recoveries."

Special Booster Club awards were presented by Dobbs to Mr. Kolowich and Steve Schmidt, Booster Club president, for the exceptional interest and support they have given to the athletic program. Similar awards were announced for Wendell Crowe and Thomas A. Bartenfeld, who were not in attendance.

Mr. Crow, in turn, was given the "Best Faculty Fan" award, and Terry Ingerson received the "Best Student Fan" award.

The Saints, seven man pep band, received the last of the 43 awards. This group probably caused the opposing coaches more anxieties and ulcers than anything else, with the possible exception of the Petrels on the court.

Letters were given to Dwight Bayley, Bob Booker, Capot Gupton, Bob Loftin, Ronnie Knopf, Jan Mundorff, Charles Teachey and Jack Warren.

PETRELS FINISH SECOND IN GIAC BASEBALL

The 1960 edition of the Petrel nine came out on the top side of a 9-5 season. Down four losses out of the first five games, the Birds snapped back to take the last eight of nine contests. Included among the early season losses were two by The Citadel and one at the hands of the Auburn Tigers.

Oglethorpe was runner-up in the GIAC with an 8-2 record. Piedmont topped the conference for the second consecutive year.

The biggest disappointment this year has been the stick work. Only four regulars managed to bat higher than .200, which makes the record all the more remarkable.

Morris Mitchell, nearly six and a half feet of natural athlete, led the team with a torrid .388 at bat. He paced the squad with 19 hits including three home runs, two triples and two doubles.

Mitchell, a left-handed first baseman, earned a berth on the mythical All-Conference team. A freshman this year, the magnificent Mitchell has the earmarks of becoming a Petrel legend on the basketball court as well as on the diamond.

Roger Couch, a junior fielder, followed Mitchell with the stick by hitting .302. He had 13 hits including two doubles and a triple. Couch was also runner up in the stolen bases department with five.

Johnny Guthrie, the Petrels' second man on the All-Conference squad, pitched and played outfield. He allowed a meager 1.07 earned runs per game.

Guthrie managed his bat real well, too. He stroked 13 hits in 48 at bats for a .271 average. He rapped four extra-base hits including two doubles and two homers, and he crossed the plate 12 times to top the team in that category.

Prospects for next year are encouraging. The squad will remain intact with the exception of one graduation loss, utility man Harold Adair.

A dramatic rise in batting averages was shown in the last four games. The Birds scored 46 runs, or an average of 11.5 per game.

Next year the Petrels will have the advantage of a landscaped diamond from the beginning. That and an experienced team make the prospects for 1961 look bright.

—THROUGH THE YEARS—

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell W. Crowe '25 will have a 23 year old German student from Munich stay with them during August.

Albert D. "Fish" Herring '27 says he has a new nickname. He is now called "Blue." He lives in Greenville, Ga. and is Clerk of the Superior Court of Meriwether County.

Leila B. Lindsey '27 circled the globe in the spring. She left Atlanta accompanied by members of the American Institute of Decorators after Homecoming Day and returned about June 10. The group traveled to many countries by air and included in their sight seeing tours the study of interior decoration in each country.

Earl Mann '28 is again associated with the Coca-Cola Co. It was through his former association with the soft drink firm that he acquired the Atlanta Crackers baseball team and Ponce de Leon Park in 1949.

Dr. Ira Jarrell '28 retiring superintendent of the Atlanta school system, was presented with an engraved silver tray by the Atlanta Cerebral Palsy Center. A Center spokesman pointed out that Miss Jarrell made it possible for the first teachers to be made available to the Center.

L. Marvin Rivers '28, valedictorian of the Class of 1928, has been reappointed to a five-year term on the Fulton County Board of Education. His appointment was made in a special presentment returned by the Fulton County Grand Jury. Rivers, whose previous term expired April 30, has been on the board since 1952. He was named then to an unexpired term which ended in 1955. He was reappointed to a full five-year term in 1955. Rivers is a title attorney with the Atlanta law firm of Crenshaw, Hansell, Ware, Brandon & Dorsey.

Died: Ruth Kinnard '31 on Friday, May 13 in Knoxville, Tenn. She taught 50 years, mostly in the Atlanta system, and retired in 1939. She was buried in her hometown of Newnan, Ga. Miss Kinnard graduated from Old Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn. in 1895 and received her B.A. in 1931 and M.A. in 1932 from Oglethorpe. She would have been 85 on August 21, 1960.

Rev. Willard P. Allison '33, chaplain of Fulton County, was presented with the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce Good Government Award on April 28. He was selected over a field of nominees from governments of Fulton County and the City of Atlanta.

Died: Mr. O. C. Jenson, husband of Mrs. Dora Dean Ambrose Jenson '33, of a heart condition in Atlanta on May 11.

Mrs. Henry W. (Mary Hubner) Walker '34 was elected secretary of the Alumni Assn. on Homecoming Day.

Frank Gaither '34, general manager of WSB Radio in Atlanta, is one of three radio executives selected to draw up a plan for tightening national broadcasting standards. The team was created by the National Assn. of Broadcasters.

Nellie Jane Gaertner '34 serves as librarian at Murphy High School in Atlanta. She is also assistant secretary of the First Presbyterian Church Sunday School.

Joel E. George '36 is now at the Pacolet Manufacturing Co. in New Holland, Ga. He was formerly at Pacolet Mills, S. C.

Found: LeeRoy L. Wynn '36, Box 156 Hazelhurst, Ga. He is Farm Supervisor of Jeff Davis County. Mrs. Wynn was elected president of the Ga. Mathematics Council during the GEA convention in March.

Tommie Carper '37 is librarian at the Teachers' Reference Library located in the Smith-Hughes School in Atlanta. Tommie is working in the Oglethorpe Alumni Office during the summer.

Mrs. Charles B. McGarity '40 was selected Georgia's Mother of the year. She lives in Dallas, Georgia.

Rev. Moss Robertson '44 is pastor of the First Baptist Church in Alexander City, Ala.

Mrs. Pearl L. Conaway '47 will take a two-month tour of Europe beginning on July 7. She is teaching in Atlanta and lives at 1976 Blvd. Dr. NE, Atlanta 17, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. (Florence Richardson '48) Lyall S. Angevine celebrated their eleventh wedding anniversary on April 30.

Gordon R. Dunagan '49 has been named vice president of Crawford & Co. He has three children, Diane 12, Danny 8 and Mike 3, and he lives at 2004 Continental Dr., NE in Atlanta.

Judge E. Harvey Albea '49 can now be reached at P. O. Box 2011, University, Ala.

Robert L. Boggus '49 is purchasing agent for Ga. Art Supply Co. He has a daughter, Charlotte Lee, who is seven months old.

Found: Mrs. Albion "Mike" Thornton Acree '50 is on the staff of the Atlanta Suburban Reporter, a weekly newspaper which covers the tri-city area of Atlanta. She lives at 1217 Reed St., East Point, Ga.

A. Z. Johnson's '50 track team at Chamblee High School won the Region 4-AA meet, the Piedmont Relays, Region 4-AA East, and were State AA champions. They placed second in the All-State invitational meet and the Roswell Relays.

Verlyn Prewett '50 is manager of the Crawford & Co. office in Fort Worth, Tex.

Bleeker Totten '51 is Housing Program Administrator for the Union Carbide Realty Co. in New York City. He was admitted to the N. Y. State Bar in March 1959. His address is 35 S. Broadway, Apt. A-6, Irvington, N. Y.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Agel '52 a son, John Loudermilk, in January. Fred is General Manager of John Rogers Co., an Atlanta automobile motor rebuilding firm. He and his family live at 1615 Berkley Lane in Atlanta.

William A. Fischer '52 is associated with the Lockheed Missiles and Space Division in Charleston, S. C.

Married: Rosemary C. Hartrampf '52 to Edwin Joseph Coons, Jr. of Houma, La. on June 11. The couple were married at the Cathedral of Christ the King in Atlanta.

Mrs. Helen Gore '52 teaches social science on Atlanta's educational television station WETV. She is studying this summer at Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn.

Alumni Directory Planned

An alumni directory is being planned for publication in the fall. A mass assault is being made on the alumni files by Tommie Carper so that information will be current and as complete as possible.

The "Oglethorpe University Who's Who" questionnaire which you have received is a part of this enterprise. Get your questionnaire completed and returned, if you have not already done so. We want the information about you to be correct.

Remember, the estimate of your gross salary and other information which you so designate will be kept Extremely Confidential.

—THROUGH THE YEARS—

O. K. Sheffield '53 served as treasurer of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce last year.

Don Bloemer '53 is an assistant bank examiner with the Ga. State Banking Department.

Corry Arensback '54 is studying French in France this summer under the auspices of Oberlin College. She received a partial scholarship from the Carnegie Foundation for this work. Miss Arensback has been attending Emory University graduate school during the past year and will return there in September as a graduate assistant.

Harriet Dono '54 has moved to Atlanta and is teaching in the Fairhaven School for Retarded Children. Her address is 1492 Ponce de Leon Ave., NE Atlanta 7, Ga.

Born: To Rev. and Mrs. (Sybil Sanders '55) Robert C. Neel a son, Alfred Christian Neel, in Hartford City, Ind. on April 7. This child, the couple's second, weighed 7 lbs. 13 ozs. and was 20 inches long at birth. Rev. Neel is a minister in the Disciples of Christ Christian Church.

Mrs. William R. (Elizabeth Christian) Jackson '55 is librarian at the Briarcliff High School in DeKalb Co. She received her masters degree in library science in 1956 from Emory University.

Born: To Mr. and Mrs. (Catherine Oehsenfeld) Alfred Ingersol '56/'55 a daughter on February 29. Her name is Stacey Alice Ingersol. The family lives at 1737 White St., Des Plaines, Ill.

O. B. Francis, Jr. '56 received his M.S. in Applied Mathematics at Ga. Tech on June 11. He is employed at the Ga. Tech Experiment Station.

William A. Wehunt '56 was graduated June 18 with honors from the Woodrow Wilson Law School in Atlanta. He will continue his studies to receive his masters degree.

Rev. Carl Lunsford '56 received his B.D. degree in May from the Southeastern Seminary in Wake Forest, N. C. He is presently serving at the student pastorate in Raleigh, N. C. awaiting a call to a permanent church.

Jimmy C. Sivils '56 received his doctor of medicine degree from Ohio State University on June 10.
